

Please note the following policy of the Korean Pain Society for secondary or duplicate publication:

<Criteria for secondary publication>

Secondary publication is allowed only when the following conditions are fully satisfied.

- A. The Authors must obtain permission from the editors of both of the journals in which the article was published previously and is to be published secondarily. The editors of the journal in which the article will be published secondarily should have a copy, a special copy, or the manuscript from the original article itself.
- B. The journal in which the article will be published secondarily must be primarily targeted to readers of a different demographic than the original publication.
- C. The secondarily published article should fully reflect the data and analysis of the previous article.
- D. The fact that the article was already previously published in part or entirely, as well as the reference of the article should be indicated in the footnote of the cover of the secondarily published article so that the readers, peer reviewers, and the citation index institution can know.

<Criteria for duplicate publication>

- A. In cases where the article has been published or is to be published, regardless of the language, publication of the main text in part or entirely, printing or electronic publication, registration of the journal to Index Medicus, and the signature of the authors on the copyright transfer agreement
- B. In cases where the manuscript has been submitted to two or more journals simultaneously
- C. In cases where submitting or publishing an article in which the aims and methods considerably overlap with the article that has been previously published
- D. In cases where submitting or publishing an article where the identical control group is used

Duplicate publication is judged by the Publication Committee and, the dissatisfaction is appealed to the Publication Ethics Committee of the Korean Association of Medical Journal Editors.

<Targets and Penalty for Authors of Duplicate publication>

- A. Mailing of a warning letter of reprimand regarding the offense
- B. Mailing of an authorized letter to the chief of the affiliated institution or the supporting institution
- C. Publication of a notice publicizing the duplicate publication or plagiarism in the journal
- D. Deletion and invalidation of the article submitted or published in the journal
- E. Submission prohibition of the responsible individual author, research group, or the research institution for a certain period of time (three years for the corresponding author and one year for the others)
- F. Formal deletion of the article from the journal announcing it to the editors of other journals and citation institutions

The level of punishment shall be resolved by Publication Committee and approved by the Governing Body of the Executives.

The duplicate publication is searched immediately after the submission to this journal by the authors.
